

Most of us can relate to having parents that are less than perfect and Mama Jean was no exception. This book is a heartfelt and funny set of stories about growing up with this amazing woman. Written by author Rodney Southern and packed with bits and pieces of yesterday, you will laugh, cry and probably even spend a little time thinking back to the good old days. His first book, My Wife Drives a Moped, has been extremely popular and this book is sure to follow suit. Written very tongue in cheek, Mama Jean Dances on the Woodstove is written for those of us that revel in the everyday things that make us laugh. "Written with a heartfelt nod towards the woman that gave him life, Southern delivers a solid offering here that will have you rolling in laughter and crying the next minute. If you want to read a book that will keep you thinking long after you finish, check out this awesome book. Mama Jean would be proud!" ---Larry Purdue Tags: Mama, Mother, Marriage, Parenting, Love, Cry, Life, Learning, Teaching, Family, Humor
