

Wild Stars #4

Facing torture back on Earth, the Artomique Georgian Raveling reveals the true nature of the Wild Stars to a disbelieving Columbian drug lord. Meanwhile, the Brothan attack on First Marker in #1 is now seen through the eyes of the Brothan ships pilot: the Artomique Genghis Champlain. Their conflict is interrupted by the appearance of a time traveler, someone whom readers thought killed in a crash with a Brothan battlewagon in Volume One. Erliks corruptible nephew, Carthage is back... and hes been through some changes. If you were wondering how Carlton MacKanally can be in two places at once... in the Caribbean and aboard the traveling Space City Magoria... the answer isnt here. Only more questions, like; how can he fight so well? Also in this issue, Daestar meets the KanZe Shamaness missing apprentice, Songwolf, whod been taken to Magoria by the now deceased Vickurus. Plus, Erliks daughter Akara returns, as she escapes from the mysterious armored stranger whod been mind-controlling her and the Wild Stars Armada. Created, Written and Rendered by Michael Tierney Pencils by Dave Simons Cover art by Frank Brunner with Color by Tom Smith Interior Cover Paintings by Mary Tierney

This is a Little Rocket presentation of Michael Tierneys Wild Stars Volume 3 issue #4 in its entirety. Only the ads have been omitted. I chose this issue as the The saga of the Wild Stars has always been on the cutting edge, from the first Wild Stars #1 Wild Stars #2 Wild Stars #3 Wild Stars #4 Wild Stars #6 Wild Stars - 4 min - Uploaded by Aliaksandr A They dont have to be pretty this time of year, they just have to go in. The Dallas Stars scored